DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ogata JP-2002-285506.

3. The reference discloses 100 weight sections of high-degree hydrocracking process residue mixed with 2-20 weight section solvent extract in the Abstract.

Applicant's claims are not novel.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ogata JP-202-285506, in view of Anderson 2,231,419.

6. Ogata has been described already. Anderson teaches blending hydrogenated asphalt with compatible synthetic resins, among them hydrogenated rubbers, in order to raise the penetration. See column 3, lines 36-45. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to add the hydrogenated asphalt of Ogata, to the rubbers of Anderson, in order to achieve the desired penetration. Since tires are just articles made of rubber, the examiner deems it obvious to use the compound of Anderson to make any rubber article, including a tire.
